BOONTON DAM VALVE FIXED.

TRICK DONE IN THE WAY DIVER BILL HOAR DID NOT FANCY.

Pump Still Forcing Air Into the Dead Man's Helmet-The Imprisoned Body May Be Hauled to Surface This Morning -Coroner Waiting for Summon

BOONTON, N. J., April 14 .- The body of Bill Hoar, the diver, was not recovered today. It still lies out at the end of the waste foot was caught by the suction on Monday. All day long to-day men working in halfhour shifts, have worked at the pump that keeps the helmet of the diver full of air. Those in authority at the dam refused to take the responsibility of ordering the pumpers to stop and they don't want to stop themselves. But nobody believes Bill Hoar is alive.

To-day strenuous efforts were made to repair the broken valve in the water gate he rushed into the adjoining building at in the centre of the dam and by to-night | 1561 and hurried to the top floor. the task was practically completed so that by to-morrow morning it is expected the body will be recovered. But until it is brought to the surface the men will work the pumps. They have not stopped an instant since Bill Hoar went down to his death at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The difficult task of repairing the valve in the dam was intrusted to-day to J. M. Rice of 455 Fifty-sixth street, Brooklyn. Rice gave up diving as a steady occupation some years ago to work as a compositor for a New York newspaper; but as an expert diver he frequently has been called on since to undertake jobs, for which big money is paid. Bundick, the master diver, who employed Hoar, summoned Rice on Wednesday, and the latter promptly responded. He was here bright and early this morning. with Elmer Hands, his lineman, and the two went to work about 10 o'clock to fix the broken valve.

This was the task which Hoar decided was more hazardous than that of attempting to stop the end of the waste pipe out in the reservoir. Difficult as Rice's job was to-day, the comparative ease with which he accomplished it showed that Hoar understanding would be accomplished. doubtedly would have been alive to-day had he taken the advice that was given him when he elected to try the other method.

This morning Rice went down the f0-foot ladder into the well and looseued all but three bolts that held the cap of the valve down. Then, in order to minimize the danger to himself from a sudden uprush of water when the cap was removed, the well was partly filled by siphon from the reservoir. When there was about eight feet of water over the cap, Rice removed the remaining bolts and took off the cap. The water then rose gradually to the cap. The water then rose gradually to the level of the reservoir.

A tackle was adjusted to the cap, which weighs a ton, and it was hauled out. with the five foot well full of water it was not an easy task to climb up and down the ladder in a heavy diving suit. This was what made Hoar give up the undertaking. Rice was as cool as a cucumber, and the work went on without a hitch. The hardest job came after the broken sheft had est job came after the broken shaft had been replaced by a new one and the gates and cap were adjusted again.

It was necessary to put in over sixty bolts. All this had to be done by the diver at the bottom of the five foot well under sixty-two feet of water. It was not until this evening that the task was completed. There was still some gearing to be anjusted, it was said, before the gate could be closed. Engineer Honness said this probably would be fixed early this morning.

As soon as the gate is closed the suction will cease, and an attempt will be made to pull Hoar's body up with the life line. It may be necessary, however, for Rice to go down and readjust this. Engineer Honness said to-day that Rice would have o go down, anyway, to remove the sand bags and other materials used in the en-deavor to stop up the pipe. It will also be necessary to pull the wooden ball away, which will be done by a rope leading to the shore a quarter of a mile away. This possibly may have to be done before Hoar's body can be brought up.

While many curiosity seekers were continually making inquiries to-day if Hoar were still alive, Engineer Honness said such talk was foolish. It was only to satisfy sentiment, he said, that the air pump was sentiment, he said, that the air pump was kept going. Both Rice and Bundick, ex-pert divers, have said that no diver could ive under the pressure twenty-four hours. To-night Hoar had been down ove eighty hours, all the time under a pressure of something more than 45 pounds. Divers said to-day that should a spark of life remain it would probably be extinguished by sudden removal of the air pressure. This causes a form of paralysis, which becomes worse the longer one has been kept under pressure.

Hundreds of persons who sat on the shore to-day watching the ceaseless labor at the pump out on the raft near the dam could not believe that all hope was gone, however. Some volunteer divers who however. Some volunteer divers who didn't get the job to-day encouraged this feeling in those whom they met by declaring that the man might be alive and if he ame up dead it was only because they

Bergen Beach Loses Some Attractions by Fire.

Fire swept away a large section of the Bergen Beach amusement resort yesterday afternoon. The property destroyed was in the heart of the place and includes, besides two-thirds of Thompson's scenic railway buildings, 350 feet of the boardwalk and bulkhead along the shore. The damage is estimated at $25,000. Scarcity of fire apparatus and the absence of water made it look for a time as though the entire resort would be wiped out.

FROM WINDOW TO WINDOW. Gallant Cop and Fireman Rescue Three in Brooklyn Fire.

Policeman Frank White of the Ralph avenue station, Brooklyn, and Capt. Louis Hauck of Engine Co. 136, rescued three persons in a fire at 1559 Broadway, Brooklyn, late last night. The fire started on the second floor in a three story apartment house. A. R. Gilmore, his wife, and George Gould, 70 years old, a boarder, were on the top floor and the flames spreading to the hallway, cut off their escape. Policeman White was on post near by pipe in the Boonton reservoir where his and heard their screams from the front windows. He covered his head with a wet cloth and rushed through the flames in the hallway. On reaching the top floor he found three persons unconscious on the

He opened a front window next to the burning house and, with great difficulty, Policeman White swung Mrs. Gilmoore so that Hauck could grab and pull her in the window. It was a risky job, but it was accomplished safely. Then Gould and Gilmore were rescued in the same manner.

Policeman White then attempted to run down the stairs, but the flames had spread so that he was cut off from escape by that way. He went to the front window and climbed out, hanging to the coping. Gripping the coping with one hand he swung himself toward Capt. Hauck in the adjoining window.

In his first attempt he failed to reach Capt. Hauck. His finger tips just touched those of the firemen. Another effort proved successful. Hauck managed to grab the policeman's wrist and pulled him into the building.

The firemen had arrived by this time and carried Glenmore, his wife and Gould to a drug store, where they were revived. A doctor was called to attend Policeman White, who had fainted from exhaustion.

COUNTERFEITER WOULD REFORM. Offered to Show Secretary Shaw How to Make His Trade Impossible.

Boston, April 14.-Joseph Bomenblitt, who, with a man known as John Davis, was being tried in the Circuit Court to-day on the charge of making and passing spurious Government bank notes, retracted his for-mer plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty to both charges in the indictment. Then he testified against Davis, who, it is said, was the head of the gang of alleged counter-feiters who were arrested in Revere and feiters who were arrested in Revere and New York last December.

Bomenblitt testified that he saw Davis print counterfeit notes from plates he had made. At one time, he said, he saw counterfeit $5, $10 and $20 bills in the possession of Davis. He said he had been engaged in counterfeiting with Davis at New York before coming to Revere, and had carried some of the spurious notes to New York.

A special committee consisting of two employers and two employees in other trades has been appointed to settle the dispute. If it fails an umpire will be appointed. The elevator constructors demand an advance in wages from $4.25 to $5.25 a day. The bricklayers' strike gave them courage to do so.

The Journeymen Stone Setters' Union,

ODELL EXCEEDS HIS POWERS. Had No Right to Call an Extraordinary Term of the Equity Court in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, April 14.- The despatch in THE SUN this morning calling attention to a further usurpation of power by Gov. Odell over the judiciary of the State called forth extended comment. In this case Gov. Odell's conduct is considered to be an open and flagrant violation of the Conditution

On an application of Corporation Counsel Feldman, Gov. Odell called an extraor-dinary term of the Equity Court to try the case involving the rights of the city of Buffalo and private parties in the Hamburiato and private parties in the Hainburg turnpike, a road which runs from Buffalo to the town of Hamburg. Gov. Odell took the case out of the hands of Supreme Court Justice Daniel J. Kepefick and turned it over to Supreme Court Justice Frederick W. Kruse of the Eighth Judicial district.

The case was on the calendar of the regu lar equity term of the Supreme Court, which was being held by Justice Kenefick, and would have been reached within a day or so for trial on the ordinary call of the calendar, and no obstacle stood in the way of its being brought to trial before Justice Kenefick. Last week Corporation Counsel Feldman made an ex parte appli-cation to Gov. Odell at Albany to call an extraordinary equity term of the Supreme Court for the trial of this cause, and Gov. Odell has just appointed Justice Kruse to sit at this extraordinary equity term for that purpose.

Eminent legal authorities united in saying to-day that the court to be presided over by Justice Kruse is an absolutely unconstitutional court. The power does not rest in Gov. Odell either to create an extraordinary term of court, or to design extraordinary term of court or to designate a Justice to preside therein. Time was when that might have obtained under legislative enactment, and in fact it is asserted that his power to do so was sustained by the Court of Appeals when the question was presented to that court on the trial of the famous Bat Shea case. This was all prior to the time of the constitutional convention in 1894, and before the amendment to the Constitution, as passed upon by that body, went into effect.

The Constitution as amended created what is known as the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court and in that bedy was the Supreme Court, and in that body was centred and to that tribunal was given the power under the Constitution to make assignments of terms and Justices to preside thereat; and any act of Gov. Odell, such as characterizes the proceedings in this City of Buffalo-Hamburg turnthis City of Buffalo-Hamburg turnpike case, is wholly without warrant of law, is a usurpation of the functions of the Appellate Division, and transgresses the Constitution of the State. If either counsel representing the parties to this litigation would challenge the integrity of the court as constituted by this act of Gov. Odell, there could be no question that heed would be paid to it and the court would be compelled to adjourn.

But Gov. Odell's political friends are behind the litigation and it is not anticipated hind the litigation and it is not anticipated that the court will be declared uncon-

Soon after the start Graziallo and Castalian ran away from the others, travelling close together to the stretch, where the favorite stopped. Wonderly took no chances with Graziallo after that and the Rapallo coit won cleverly by four lengths in 1:28 4-5. In a sharp drive Briarthorpe managed to beat Bill Daly's Himself, 20 to 1, by three parts of a length.

LOCAL RACING BEGINS TO-DAY.

CARTER HANDICAP TO BE RUN AT AQUEDUCT.

Peter Paul May Be the Favorite, With the Boden Entry, Rostand, Wotan, Beldame, Ascension and Others Well Thought Of -Fitzgerald Will Handle the Barrier.

The metropolitan racing season opens o-day at Aqueduct under the auspices of Queens County Jockey Club. The track is in fine shape and recent improvements will afford the public better accommodations than ever before. Christopher J. Fitzgerald will handle the barrier during the meeting and the system of walking the horses to the gate will prevail. To-day's feature will be the Carter Handicap, $5,000 added, seven furlongs, for which twenty-two horses have been named to go to the post. Judging from the predictions of turfmen last night Peter Paul will probably rule favorite. He has displayed high class form at Washington and will be ridden by Hildebrand, the Western lightweight, who has been brought on here from California by Joe Yeager Peter Paul will carry 98 pounds and will sport the Bradley colors.

J. Boden will start both Masterman and Rosetint. The former picks up top weight, 112 pounds, and will be ridden by John Bullman, while Rosetfet, with 110, will be handled by Grover Cleveland Fuller. This entry will surely have a following, as Rosetint, if ready for racing, is one of the best sprinters in the Engt.

for racing, is one of the best sprinters in the East.

The Hampton Stables three-year-old Wotan is considered another factor. The colt has been especially prepared at Gravesend by Dick Miller, and will go to the post in fine trim. He is in very light with 100 pounds F. R. Doctor's Rostand, also prepared at Gravesend, is another contender, so the sharps say, while Newton Bennington's Beldame has done enough fast work to warrant support. Ascension, at the weights and taking into consideration her Bennings form, is well thought of, while Billy Oliver's pair, All Gold and Lord Badge, are not overlooked.

The Goughacre stable's Spring, J. L.

The Goughacre stable's Spring, J. L. McJinnis's Sweet Alice, the Boston stable's Ostrich, and W. R. Midgely's Tribes Hill have all been discussed as possible Minners. It looks like an open race with possibly fifteen starters after the scratches are all in. All of the crack jockeys, barring Redfern, who has been ill, will be seen in the saddle. It was said last night that about one hundred layers would begin business in the ring. The conditions and the entries for the Carter Handicap are as follows:

In the Treatment of Humours with More Than Magical Effect with CUTICURA REMEDIES.

A Remarkable Testimonial from a Most Intelligent and Trustworthy Lady.

" A tumor came on my neck and in & day or two it was as large as half an orange. I was very much alarmed for fear it was malignant. My friends tried to persuade me to consult my physician; but dreading that he would insist on using the knife, I would not consent to go. Instead, I got Cutiours Resolvent and Cuticara Cintment. took the former according to direc-tions, and spread a thick layer of the Ointment on the swelling. On renewing it I would bathe my neck in very warm water and Cuticura Soap. In a few days the Cuticura Ointment had drawn the swelling to a head, when 18 broke. Every morning it was opened with a large sterilized needle, squeezed and bathed, and fresh Ointmest not on. Pus and blood, and a yellow, cheesy, tumorous matter came out. In about three or four weeks' time this treatment completely eliminated the tumor. The soreness that had extended down into my chest was all gone, and my neck now seems to be perfectly well.

"About five or six years age my dister had a similar experience, used the Cuticum Remedies with magical effect. I am willing you should use my testi-monial, with the further privilege of revealing my name and address to such persons as may wish to substantiate the above statements by personal letter to me." An Interview Between a Patient and the Physician at the Oppenheimer Institute.

PART V. Patient-I have not got the time required to take your treatment: I must be Patient-How are your remedies administered? Physician-They are all taken through the mouth, and not hypodermically, being pleasant in taste and easily borne by the most delicate stomach. erally they are given three times daily for one or two days, twice daily for a week, once daily the next week, and on alternate days the last week; the entire time covering from three to four weeks. Patient-Are there any bad after effects from treatment? Physician-Positively no; on the contrary, the patient is restored to a perfectly normal condition, his mind be-comes clear, his memory acute, his judgment restored, he becomes selfconfident and regains his power of initiative. Patient-How long does it take to cure an addiction of morphine, cocaine, opium or other drugs? Physician-This depends upon the case. The progress of the case is influenced largely by the following: The Method of the Addiction, whether hypodermic or otherwise; the hypodermic being slightly more difficult than others.

The Length of Time of the Addiction.

It is easier to cure a patient who has STEADY WORK FOR 10,000 MEN. used 10 grains of drug daily for six months than one who has taken one grain daily for several years. The Continuity of the Addiction. Patients who have never ceased using the drug from the beginning are more difficult than those whose addiction has been broken at various times. Physical Condition of the Patient. In this as in every other disease, the general physical condition of the pa-tient is a factor and regulates the time required to complete a cure. All cases, however, are curable, and a fair average of time required to effect a cure is from three to six weeks. Many extreme cases have been cured in four
